

Lostwithiel Library phased reopening

We are pleased to announce that we are reopening the Library doors for browsing and borrowing on Wednesday 22 September 2021. Thank you for your continued understanding regarding the delay in the reopening of the Library, we hope to get our volunteer led library back up and running soon. In the meantime, Claire and Sandra will continue their sterling work providing the interim service. As you might appreciate returning to normal after a pandemic is slightly different for a Library service that is run with volunteers, compared to a Library service that is run with paid staff.

We will be open for a 2-hour browsing slot from 12.30 – 14.30 every Wednesday, (please check our website and Facebook page for any future updates on these opening hours). We currently recommend that Library building users wear a face mask, use the hand sanitiser provided and observe social distancing. Also, we appreciate some residents will not wish to enter the library building, so we will still run the weekly (Wednesdays 12.30 -14.30) click and collect service in the Courtyard for pre-ordered book collections.
